Tips for How to Spot a Fake Tag Heuer

One of the most renowned luxurious Swiss Watch maker company is TAG Heuer. Just like many other luxurious watch manufacturers like Breitling, Rolex, omega etc; there are too many who are just producing fake watches at low production cost and then actually selling them at high prices as they are being the original and genuine products. Talking roughly, any fake item does have some imperfections in them and Tag Heuers are simply no exception. Therefore, before you happen to spend any of your money on a Tag Heuer manufactured timepiece, you need to be extremely sure that you are making an authentic and genuine deal instead of falling for a fake one.

For this reason, you need to follow certain useful instructions. You will require having a Flashlight, magnifying glass or a Jeweler's loupe. These are some of the things you will need which will be helpful in making sure that you are buying an original product.

First and foremost, you should be figuring out the imprinted writing that is on the dial through a magnifying glass or a jeweler's loupe. You need to keep this in your mind that the writings have clean cuts and straight lines, however, if the Tag Heuers turns out to be a Counterfeit then they will be having blurry or sloppy writing.

The second approach is to shine a flashlight on the watch hands for approximately 30 seconds. One other thing you can do is to take the watch in a dark area and then observe the hands. LumiNova is a substance that is coated over the hands of TAG Heuer Watches. This substance makes them glow while they are in dark surroundings. Thus, if you have a genuine Tag Heuer in your hands, it is going to glow whereas the fake ones will be gull, dim glow or simply no glow at all.

Other than that, you can also look for the glow that is around the edge of the watch crown. Fake Tag Heuers normally have glue filtrate around the crowns and different other areas of the watch. You must be aware of the fact that genuine ones do not make use of glue and this does not provide any option that the glue is going to residue.

You should also be examining the face, hands, dial, and all other aspects of the watch for any kind of dust, hair, fingerprints, or any kind of contaminants. The genuine and original Tag Heuer watches pass through the quality standards very strictly and that does not enable them with any sort of imperfections at all.
