Most importantly, the coaches need to define what the rule would entail. To be effective, it must offer coaches complete discretion ♦ the ability to sub out a player for a variety of reasons, from illness to injury to performance, like any other team sport. Limiting the rule to only injury or illness could lead to players feigning an ailment to benefit the team. With the season now over, the next step in the process is for coaches to conduct a formal poll and to submit legislation to the NCAA golf committee. Hybl said there has been a ♦ wave of support ♦ and that a substitution rule in college golf will be in place ♦ sooner rather than later. ♦ The visibility of the Hossler situation ♦ Oregon also would have subbed, Martin said, with Thomas Lim suffering from flu-like symptoms ♦ could expedite the timeline even more.
