he latter gave rise to yet another topic: Judge Barrett's use of the term "sexual preference, " in reference to LGBTQ people, which she used in response to questions from Sen. Dianne Feinstein (D-CA) about whether or not she agreed with Justice Antonin Scalia's and Justice Clarence Thomas's recent criticism of the Obergefell v. Hodges ruling, which legalized gay marriage.

"I have never discriminated on the basis of sexual preference and would never discriminate on the basis of sexual preference, " Barrett said.

Right away, LGBTQ organizations and individuals " including George Takei, GLAAD and Lambda Legal " began calling out her use of the term, noting that it was a "dog whistle" to homophobic hate groups, as it implies sexual orientation (the proper term and legal term) is a choice and not worthy of protection from discrimination. Trumpworld flew into a frenzy on Wednesday after the New York Post published a report purporting to show a "smoking-gun email" featuring Hunter Biden communicating with a Ukrainian official about meeting with his father, Joe Biden, the Democratic presidential nominee.

The Post's story had several red flags and holes that raise questions about its authenticity. The most glaring questions are whether the emails described in the story are legitimate, how they were uncovered, and how the Post obtained them.

The Post's report said that an unidentified computer-repair-shop owner discovered the emails and other compromising material about Hunter Biden after an unidentified person dropped off a water-damaged laptop last year to be repaired but never picked it up.
